News from Venetia Mine

Trainee firefighter a top operator

Alice Mandiwana is a top-performing female operator for De Beers at Venetia Mine, with an average rate of 237 tonnes hauled per operating hour.

She ranks in the top seven operators on the mine and is the female operator with the highest net operating hours (NOH) at the time of publication. This means that she is highly efficient and only spends the minimum amount of time idling the earth moving vehicle (EMV) as a result of standbys and delays. Whereas the average operator at Venetia has moved approximately 78 loads to date this year, Alice has hauled 113 loads.

Alice loves working in the mining industry. She enjoys the diverse environment and is energised by the many opportunities for development and leadership. However, mining was not always her dream. She started out as a trainee firefighter desperate for a job and a chance to put bread on the table. After months of unsuccessful job hunting, she made application for the position of operator at De Beers and has never looked back.

Alice's role sees her responsible for the loading and hauling of kimberlite ore and waste and its offloading at either the waste dumps or the primary crusher. "When I tell people that I drive a CAT 793 truck that can hold up to 234 tonnes, they are disbelieving. They ask me if it is difficult for a woman to control a large machine like that, but I tell them, it's not hard - it's easy!"

The first time Alice entered a mine was after her operator training. She was unprepared for the sheer scale of operations, and admits that she was shocked by the size of the tyres and a little intimidated to think that she would be driving such enormous equipment. Two years later, Alice drives one of the largest trucks at Venetia Mine and seems to believe that 'bigger is better.' Not one to shy away from a challenge, Alice is eager for training and enjoys learning how to operate other machines. In an environment where people can be superstitious around which roles a woman should and should not undertake, Alice chooses to ignore these folk tales. She says, "As women we need to believe in ourselves and to take every opportunity to be trained".

As the primary breadwinner in her family, Alice takes her career very seriously and is passionate about providing for her husband, son (3) and daughter (8). "I never would have dreamt that my husband would lose his job. He is the man I love and the father of my children, and it is a privilege to have the kind of job where I can take care of him and my family until he gets back on his feet," says Alice.

Join the fun walk

The Sanco of Tshithuthuni in Nzhelele is inviting members of the public to attend a four km fun walk next Wednesday (24 September).

The initiative is aimed at emphasising the importance of a healthy lifestyle to the elders in Tshithuthuni village. The chairperson of the local Sanco, Mr Muraida Netshivhulana, said the initiative would help to curb ailments such as high blood pressure, stress, asthma, diabetes and many other diseases. This is the second fun walk, following the successful one held on 17 August.

The fun walk will start at 05:30 from the Silomo Road to the Tshithuthuni Royal Kraal. "Our elders are always sitting at home doing nothing. We want to influence them to exercise and look after their health," said Netshivhulana.

The winners of the half-marathon for men: Rapson Chigara (2nd), Gilbert Mutandiro (1st) and Givemore Mudzinganyama (3rd).

Thomas Ngobeni of Arangwa won the masters' division of the half-marathon.

R16 million to upgrade local sports facilities

The Makhado Local Municipality has put aside R10 million to upgrade the sport centre at the Vuwani Mandani grounds. A further R6 million has been allocated for the renovation of the Bungeni Stadium.

This was revealed by Mayor David Mutavhatsindi last Thursday, when he centres for sports development and some of the small premier soccer league games will be played there.

"This will also benefit the locals economically," he added.

The president of the Makhado LFA, Mr Joseph Maphaha, applauded the municipality. He acknowledged that are serious challenges in relation to sporting infrastructure in the area.

"We do not have enough playing fields and indoor sporting facilities. Despite all this, we are happy that the municipality continues to produce professional sports personalities who put us on the world map," he said.
